YEAR BOOK

Our President

Dr. Charles C. Ward

1946 Cardinal

Rightly the 1946 CARDINAL is dedicated "to the task which lies ahead." Truly, the teacher must assume a first obligation in the completion of this task. We know what we want—justice and opportunity for all people. We know how to attain this purpose and the price we must pay—a dedication of self in service as teachers and as citizens. We know also that if we attain these ends, a peace universal, that hope of all the world, will be assured. As yet we do not know how to banish that fear and distrust, that selfishness and hatred, which through all time have made justice and peace impossible. These are the tragedies of life which in the past have separated peoples and nations.

Throughout the ages, men of good will have envisioned a universal brotherhood and a universal peace. They have hoped for a true "parliament of man," a Utopia made possible through our better selves. As yet the task is incomplete.

It has happened that, in our own generation, there has come to us in America a challenge to leadership such as no other people has been privileged to accept and undertake. We are a powerful people in every material sense—we have untold resources, unlimited possibilities. We have law based upon the rights and duties of man. We have an intellectual and spiritual heritage and treasure with which to make a living reality of this vision of the ages. What we do with this challenge, no one can yet predict. The task cannot be done except as individuals such as you and I dedicate ourselves to the task.

In our own college, I firmly believe, we have made a beginning in our relationships one with another. The theme which you have chosen for the CARDINAL indicates an awareness of our national opportunity and obligation. In our daily association we have learned, in part, to give and take in the achievement of a common purpose. We have come to know how to live together, and that the whole is greater than its parts. In this business of our daily association we take part in many activities; we develop many interests not found in the formal curriculum. We have caught something of the unseen purpose of living; we have seen a little of the "light that never was"; we have gazed for a moment on that most distant horizon.

In a sense the 1946 CARDINAL is a culmination of our hopes and aspirations. It mirrors, even if briefly, the challenge which comes to every teacher in our nation. The highest labor of all of us is to see this task a little nearer completion through the vision, the effort, and the sacrifice of our students of today—the teachers of the future.

CHARLES C. WARD

Dedication

"It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the great task remaining before us"—with these, the immortal words of Abraham Lincoln, we present the 1946 CARDINAL.

Today our college is opening its doors to the men and women who have brought the war to an end. They have earned the peace. Have we? These men and women who have returned home to us are no longer in barracks but in classrooms, no longer in foxholes but in our student lounge. It is our task to help them shape the world they have redeemed. We must think, talk, teach a union of nations—for in this way only will the future generations profit by the lessons we have learned.

With this in mind, we, the members of the CARDINAL Staff, dedicate our book to that unfinished task which lies before us, in the hope that those who take our places here may dedicate themselves also—and later as educators aid in teaching peace to a universal brotherhood of man.

Our Advisor

A friend, counselor, and guide is our adviser, Dr. Diebolt. It is he who has helped bring action into our class meetings and into everything the Class of '47 has done. For this and more the Juniors look in gratitude to Dr. Diebolt.

He has steered us, helped us over the bumps, and given to our imaginations exercise. His ever practical advice has made us aware of the importance of the profession we are training for, inspiring us with zealousness, cooperation, and the realization of the part we are to play in the future of the children we will teach, their importance in the much hoped for United World of tomorrow.

Junior Class

"All hail '47—"

The long-awaited opportunity to be called "upper-classmen" has come and are we proud! We have worked hard for that privilege.

Let's look back for awhile.—After the hectic first few weeks bringing registration (like filing an income tax return), initiation and traditional red and white caps, we settled down to the serious business of being Freshmen. We were led through a successful year by Priscilla Armstrong as president. With us then was the first class of United States Cadet Nurses.

Our Sophomore year found us more secure in our ideals. The "high-point" of the year came with the informal dance and Camp Macdonough supplying the escorts. (Remember the Navy?) Music was by Snow's Orchestra (plug) and we chose evergreens and colored lights for decorations. The class went "all-out" to make the endeavor a successful one.

Provision for the acute man shortage, after the Navy left, was made by a "He-She Barn Dance" this year. The gym rocked with "four more couples and swing your partner."

We are now looking forward to the return of our Cadet Nurses. They have seen duty at Watertown, Ogdensburg, and New York, leading to their graduation in March of this year. Plans are in progress for a welcome-back party for them.

Our Junior Week activities give the spring a memory ever to be remembered. We also look further back on our days at P.S.T.C. and resolve that next year and the years to come will find us good teachers, a credit to our Alma Mater.

Senior Class Officers

Once "lowly Freshmen"; now privileged, inspired Seniors. A thrill of attainment made possible by their singleness of purpose and the patience and understanding of their "profs."

A Military Hop marked their first year. As Sophomores, they led the social parade, welcoming the Navy, which prompted the Sophomore Soiree. Formal gowns and blue uniforms passed under trellised paths which led to a spring garden.

According to tradition, they were conspicuous by their absence from classes during Junior Week. (How was the picnic?)

Four years of hard work and fun. Four years of preparing themselves to go out into a new, peaceful world, carrying with them the hope of making this world better through education.

Sophomore Class Officers

Our hats went off to the largest Freshman Class in the history of the college. Two hundred twelve eager but bewildered "Frosh," marked by bibs and the red and white "beanies." Their initiation period was thankfully cut short, making way for the patriotic duty of apple-picking.

A more ambitious group yet to be found, this class distinguished themselves by their willingness to work both socially and studiously.

A carnival came to P.S.T.C. this year under the efficient management of the smooth-working social committee of our Class of '48. The fortune-telling booth excelled in popularity even though exams were still about ten weeks away!

"Two more years to go," say the Sophs. "Let's make them even better than the two that are now behind us."

Freshman Class Officers

The first twinge of loneliness gave way to frenzied adjustment to a new life, as the Freshman Class took their initial steps toward being teachers. Keys bearing names, addresses, and telephone numbers supplemented the bibs of the now much-feared Sophomores. But it wasn't too bad. Now, was it, girls (and boys)?

They found that social activities, as well as assignments, kept them forever "on the go."

Since Dean Lewis was so good to "come to" for much needed advice, the Freshmen decided to help her out and planned a party for the January class, which did much toward enlightening the new students as to "what's what at P.S.T.C."

The potentialities of this class have already been in evidence. Greater things are yet to come.

The Maltese Cross is marching again,
To answer the call, a new crusade,
We give our care to valorous men,
To heroes and all who need our aid,
Cadets in gray are here to carry along
The valiant fight to keep America strong.

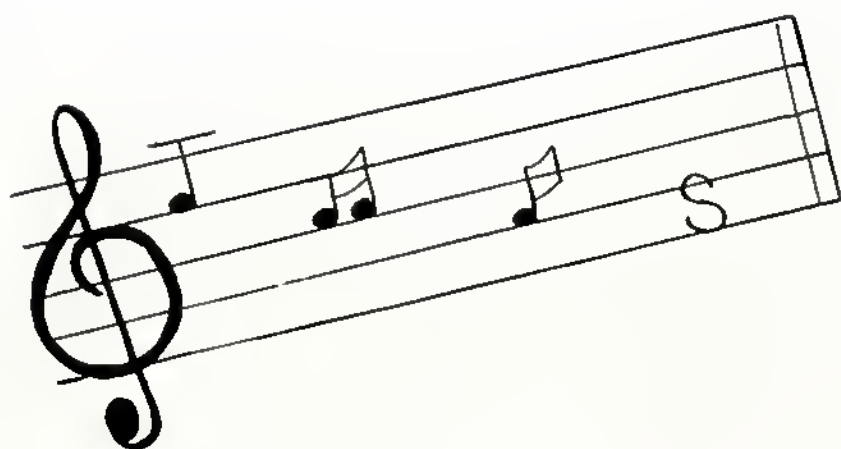

CHORUS

We're the cadets, we're in the corps,
Doing our part to help the nation win the war,
Doing the job we're chosen for,
United States Cadet Nurse Corps,
Working together day and night,
Guarding our country's strength and might;
From coast to coast we'll sing a toast,
Student nurses of the corps.
We serve our land with mind and hand;

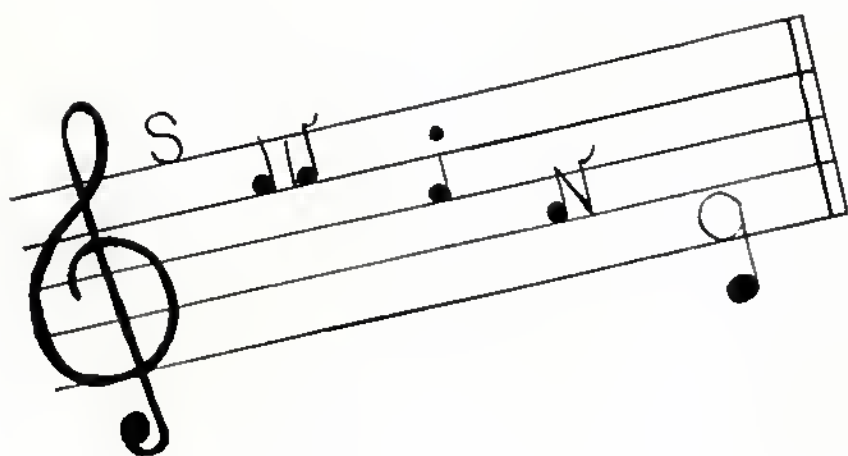

Our pledge we give, to help preserve
A world where free men live;
Our lamps we light; our hearts unite
From shore to shore.
Hail, Cadet Nurse Corps.

Music

"Music hath charm . . ." and so it was throughout this year at P.S.T.C., with the Music Department contributing to the many programs at Christmas and Commencement. The culmination of the various musical groups' efforts was heard at their featured concert in March. Mr. Iversen, who came to us in September, directed all the musical "forces."

A new peaceful world brings new ideas to the Athletic Board. The Board, directed by Dr. Redcay, and through representatives of each class, has presented the students with several new ideas.

The Athletic Board, getting its start in 1942, meets once a month to discuss the various school activities to see how it can better intra-mural sports. From this Board has developed the new point system for athletic awards; a system of filing the records of the individual student's extra-curricular sports activities. The Board is now planning an athletic schedule for the returned veterans.

Our Yale-Princeton Teams

Front row—Valerie Obrt, Verda House, Claire Gagné, Doris Brown, Gertrude Harper, Doris Benton, Esthee Teimphn, Mary Jane Dillon

Second row—Margaret Bailey, Jane Bartlett, Lorraine Garcia, Jane Paterson, Kathelyn Looby, Madelyn Ferris, Dorothy White, Naomi Merrick, Marlea Fox, Marie Dennis

Basketball

The spring of 1939, first girls' competitive game at P.S.T.C. was introduced by Miss Backus. The game since has been an annual event. Each year the sixteen outstanding players from teams competing during the season are chosen to represent Yale and Princeton. Barbara Crosby, Genevieve Goodspeed, and Marjorie Garland have been the captains of the Yale team in the past three years. Blanche Frazier, Jeanne Tolosky, and Patricia Robbins have headed the teams for Princeton. As we go to press the outcome for '46 is unknown but with Gertrude Harper as captain for Princeton, and Doris Brown for Yale there should be strong competition.

'46 will be remembered, too, as the time when the fellows formed a team to be really proud of. We look forward to bigger and better inter-collegiate programs next year.

Sports

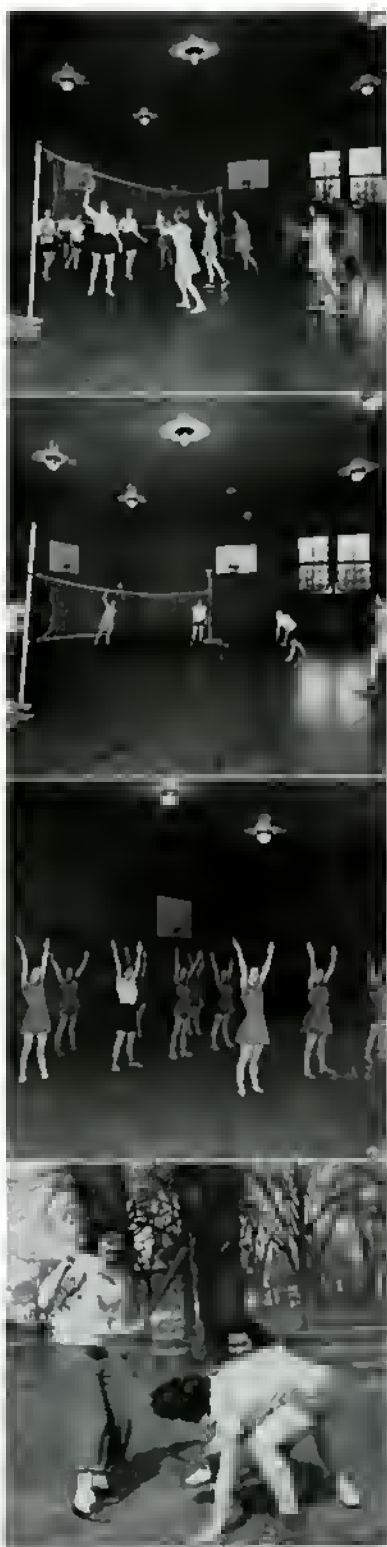

How about a little more teamwork? Co-operation—that's the password to success in Volleyball. Class teams practiced diligently to improve their techniques and gain the skill to make an honor team. What a recompense it was to realize that it was "our team" which won the fall tournament!

Racket! Bird! A nimble pair of feet! Essentials for Badminton. The keen rivalry at practice produced an enthusiastic spirit for the annual contest this year.

Yes! It's down the alley for a strike to get that high score, says the co-ed. Just luck, you say? No, not luck but skill and practice are required to Bowl over those pins, as the high-point winner of the award will tell you.

Love—thirty! Deuce! Those are the cries echoing across the Tennis courts and campus in the spring. Whether a beginner or a veteran, there's the same moment of suspense in watching the perfect serve in the annual tournament.

Strike one! Ball two! Spring is the season for Softball. The four-league team play-off is enthusiastic—they sure aren't sissies. Members of the winning team receive letters for their hard play.

Outing Club

"The Outing Club sponsors—" Many a notice has adorned the north bulletin board this past year—officers initiate the activity—membership open to all.

On a crisp autumn day they followed a Tyrolese instinct and climbed Lyon Mountain. A trip to Vermont via bicycles was an excursion to remember. The ferry-trip was rather rough—priceless souvenirs discovered—soap flakes!

The twelve-mile hike around the head turned out to be only a six-mile one—the services of an automobile were donated—returned in time for a whopping good football game.

Braving a threat of frosted toes and sore muscles, a typically cold January night was picked to skate on the P.H.S. rink. The exercise, they claim, is wonderful.

Deciding to try their wings afar, they visited Lake Placid for winter sports. A little different from Rand Hill.

Comes spring, and there's another bike hike—you hike up and bike down.

The girls pass the credit for such a successful year to their adviser, Miss Backus.

House of Delegates

The House of Delegates embodies the spirit of democracy which permeates the activities of P.S.T.C. students. To this organization come the "gripes" and problems which confront the student body. The decisions reached by the House are sent to Dr. Ward and with his approval become "the law."

Student Council

The Council, once known as the Student Congress, acts as the executive body of the House of Delegates. At first this group was composed of the officers of the House, acting in the same capacity, and the standing committees. With increased activities and growth of committees, membership was decreased to include only officers and chairmen of committees. We now have an efficient executive group meeting twice a month to initiate and clear the problems arising in the college before they are sent to the House for discussion.

Organized in '41, this group is represented by house presidents from each college residence. Perhaps in the future the "Women's" will be dropped, as men are becoming ever increasingly in evidence around the college. Problems—yes—the Board takes care of them, in addition to making regulations and keeping the students at the houses "satisfied."

Interfraternity Council

Sixteen years of service in regulating the affairs of the sororities—that's the record of the Interfraternity Council, and it is one to be admired. Following the "rush season," another coffee hour was sponsored by the Council, which, as in other years, was the ultimate in sociability, and symbolized the coordination of the three active sororities of the college.

Their anchors hoisted, the Agonians set sail for another year of happy times, hard work, and the grand feeling of working together under the blue and gold banner of Alpha Kappa Phi. The party for the "frosh" with apple pie and milk . . . At Oneonta, the first convocation since the war's end as it found Agos gathered together from all over the state . . . The Agonian Success Course as the theme of the Rush Party with carrot sticks and hot fudge sundaes . . . The Pledge Banquet—echoing notes of Agonian songs, yellow roses and at midnight the solemn ceremonies which welcomed the new members to the sisterhood of AKΦ . . . "Hell Week," packed full of horrors, outlandish costumes and laughs . . . Formal initiation and keys symbolizing true Agonian ideals proudly worn. Tears, grand memories, and fond goodbyes at the Farewell Banquet. With firm determination, the Agonians go forward to play their part in the world ahead.

Alpha Delta---Theta Chapter

The Alpha Deltas together again for another year of companionship and fun The traditional "Coke-Tail Party" saying "Hello" to the new Freshmen The "Bar A-D Ranch" Rush Party entertaining its guests with pancakes and sausages and novelty skits A rollicking minstrel show presented at assembly, where A.D. girls outdid themselves with rhythmical negro ballads and rib-tickling jokes All in all, it was a busy and happy year for the members who wore the purple and white, a year of memory-building for the future for Alpha Delta.

Another all-grand memory-packed year for the Clios. The first peacetime September in four years found them reunited and rarin' to go . . . Welcoming the Freshmen with cider and doughnuts . . . The Rush Party where enthusiastic rushees were entertained in a Pirates' Den . . . Then "Organized Confusion," an original arrangement of a day in the Senate, with conversation taken verbatim from Congressional Records . . . Hours spent in laborious planning for the Pledge Banquet . . . Excited newcomers to ΦΚΠ impressed by the beautiful ceremonies, depressed by the hell they endured to prove they were true Clionians in every sense of the word . . . The traditional Senior Farewell Breakfast culminating a fun-packed, satisfying year . . . It was hard to say goodbye to sisters; but Phi Kappa Pi looks to tomorrow, with new ambitions fortified with memories.

Our Publications

The Tower

A chance to express all those thoughts that one has been concealing finds an outlet in the college literary journal The Tower. Published once a year, The Tower, has a staff of students who are interested in literary achievement. The Sophomore English classes are sources from which The Tower obtains all those poems, essays, and parodies which are such a pleasure to read.

The Northern Light scoops again—everyone rushing after that last assignment . . . "Get it in before the deadline!" The staff was kept busy continuing to send copies of the paper to the men and women in service, in addition to recording Christmas Stamp sales in the community.

Later there was a chance to forget the paper for an evening with fun and laughs at the Lodge.

Now the Northern Light has been converted from a war-time publication to one of peace. It continues more than ever to make each student of the college aware of the part he must play to make our post-war world a peaceful one.

Footlights Club

Again this year, the all-girl Footlights Club has had a busy and enterprising time. A one-act play, "Star Struck," was presented at an assembly program, giving the student body a preliminary glimpse of what they could expect when the major production of the year was presented. This was the three-act play entitled "Nine Girls," which went into rehearsal in February. Hard work, perseverance, and success are the keys to the Footlights Club.

"Whose voices utter the same wills" . . . that's the story of Choric Speech . . . unity of expression in the world of poetry. This club, under the capable direction of Mr. Hartman, has sounded many an interesting note in the entertainment symphony of the college since its organization in 1942. It took part in the solemn Baccalaureate Service and in the induction of the Cadet Nurses into the United States Cadet Corps.

Home Economics Club

This year the members of the Home Economics Club succeeded in making the organization play an important part in the everyday life of P.S.T.C. students. The Freshman Tea was sponsored to acquaint the Frosh with the members of the club. A high spot in the life of the Home Economics Club was the series of teas given during Christmas week.

Along with the social life, there was learning of educational value which the members undertook to achieve. Their goal was reached—and the Home Economics Club remains a feature of our college.

Elementary Club

The third year of the Elementary Club opened the semester with a change of advisers. Miss Sibley was chosen to replace Miss Berry, who left at the close of the last college year.

The purpose of the club is to provide social skill, leadership, and support for the educational program of the Elementary Department of the college.

A tea for the incoming freshmen and the faculty of the Elementary Department opened the year's activities. Mr. MacFarlane, of our Science Department, spoke to the club on the subject of atomic energy and the atomic bomb.

The members also made a visit to Miss Barber's home, where they learned about various phases of home economics. Miss Root and Miss Burwash were the guest speakers.

The Elementary Club has had a successful year, its members winning "fame and fortune" for themselves and their organization.

Astronomy Club

"The sky is the limit," was proved when the Galilean Protégés presented the assembly program, "The Zodiac Constellations."

The Star-Gazers have had fun peering through telescopes and searching the heavens for Cancer, Gemini, Taurus, Aquarius, and Pisces, Aries, and others.

The Astronomy Club was first organized in 1935 under the advisership of Dr. Rusterholtz. Since that time, the club has never had a dull moment, for Dr. Rusterholtz is always leading his group towards "new discoveries in the sky."

The Supper Club started this year's cooks' tour by choosing dishes of foreign lands around the world. Among these were Chinese, French, Mexican, Italian, and others. Discussion followed in atmospheres which were attained very simply but quite effectively.

The Club's big activity of the year, was the All-College Supper—a yearly, traditional, informal get-together—planned and carried out by these able members who are doing their part in learning about their good neighbors through food.

Leather, metal, glass, and wood are the materials with which the Art Club has been working this year. The results—billfolds, bracelets, book-ends, toys, and etched glass. It's work, but fun too!

Its regular adviser, Miss Bowers, was granted a leave of absence, but Mrs. MacDowell stepped in and helped the girls with their projects.

The Art Club sponsored the annual Art Club Tea with an exhibition of art projects, both their own and some provided by the various art classes of the college. And what an exhibition! Artistic talent is not lacking at P.S.T.C.!
